

Route 51 Definitely Routed Thru Frankfort

The final deliniation of route 51 from Andres to Justice has been officially announced the past week by Col. C. R. Miller, director of Public Works and Buildings, of Springfield. The route as outlined goes by way of Keane Avenue as at first decided on. The fight to have Route 51 designated on Wolf Road from Andres thru Mokena to Wheeling was a hot one and was of state wide interest. The final routing of Route 51 as outlined by the State Highway Department is as follows:

Having investigated all of the proposed locations for Bond Issue Route No. 51 between Route 44 and Justice and having held a final hearing, the Department of Public Works and Buildings announces a preference for the location described below. This location will be fixed as final for Route 51 between the points named, only on condition that the local interests arrange to furnish without cost to the State such additional right of way as may prove necessary in order that a road of ample width, easy turns, moderate grades and a minimum number of railroad grade crossings may be built.

When final surveys have been made conveyance forms, descriptions and plats will be furnished by the Department to those who undertake to secure the necessary right of way.

Description of Preferred Route

Beginning at an intersection with State Bond Issue 44 near the north east corner of Section 18, T. 33 N., R. 12 E. of the 3rd P. M. and extending northerly, following the general location and relocations of the existing road along the east side of Sections 7 and 6, T. 33 N., R. 12 E. of the 3rd P. M. passing thru Adres, and along the east side of Sections 31, 30, 19, 18, 7 and 6, T. 34 N., R. 12 E. of the 3rd P. M., approximately to the point where the existing road turns northeast; and thence northeasterly following the general location of the existing diagonal road thru Section 5, T. 34 N., R. 12 E. of the 3rd P. M. approximately to the point where the diagonal road turns north; thence northeasterly, following relocations and existing roads thru Sections 32, 29 and 28, T. 35 N., R. 12 E. of the 3rd P. M. to a point in the Village of Frankfort near the west line of said Section 28; thence northerly, following existing roads and relocations along the west side of Sections 28, 21, 16, 9 and 4, T. 35 N., R. 12 E. of the 3rd P. M. along the west side of Sections 33, 28, 21, 16, 9 and 4, T. 36 N., R. 12 E. of the 3rd P. M., passing thru the Village of Orland, and along the west side of Sections 33 and 28, T. 37 N., R. 12 E. of the 3rd P. M., to a point near the north east corner of the southeast quarter of said Section 28; thence northerly to Justice, the detailed location to be determined after further engineering study.

It is understood that the above description covers the general location of Bond Issue Route No. 51, but that the exact location of the road actually built may vary so that easy grades, moderate turns, and a minimum number of grade crossings will exist in the finally completed road.

Mokena Working For County Bond Issue Program

At the meeting of the Mokena Hard Road and Improvement Association held Monday night the following letter from Col. C. R. Miller, director of Public Works and Buildings, Springfield, as regarding the routing of Route 51 was read:

"I am in receipt of your telegram relative to State Bond Issue Route 51.

"There has been a terrific drive in which we have been urged to deviate from the law in the location of State Bond Issue Route 51 in southern Cook and northern Will Counties.

"I am forwarding, under separate cover, a copy of our 1925 Road and Bridge Laws, and will call your attention to the legal description of Route 51 at the bottom of page 117. You will note therein that this road, must, under the law, pass thru Frankfort, Orland and Palos Park.

"There is, of course, much merit to the Wolf Road, but the friends of that location should have had this question up before the 53rd General Assembly when the law was enacted fixing the location of this road. Court proceedings have clearly demonstrated to us that we cannot have legislative authority to make general changes in the location of roads, although we have authority to make minor changes, but when the points of location are named in the law it is fixed definitely not only by the Legislature but by the approval of the majority of the voters of Illinois at the general election in the Fall of 1924.

"I am sorry for the above reason that we cannot consider the request of our many friends in connection with this location. The location has been fixed, the decision published, and we are advertising for bids for the construction of same.

"Assuring you that I will always be glad to hear from you when we can be of service."

The Mokena Association after the reading of this letter, turned their attention to the proposed $2,500,000 Will County Bond Issue and a committee, consisting of Ona McGovney, Elmer L. Cooper, N. F. Helman, Don C. Hall and J. A. Touley, will confer with highway and county officials at Joliet urging a county bond issue for hard roads.

The committee named will make a report of their findings at the meeting of the Association next Monday night at the school house.

On the suggestion of chairman, Ona McGovney of the Mokena Development and Hard Road Improvement Association, the members of the association extended a hearty vote of thanks to L. G. Bruder, chairman of the association's publicity committee for the very highly efficient services he has rendered in getting Mokena on the map.

The editor is in receipt of the following letter from Col. C. R. Miller regarding the routing of Route 51:

Dear Mr. Semmler:

"I have your favor of April 4, relative to the location of State Bond Issue Route 51.

"I am enclosing a map showing the location of the first and second bond issue road systems, also a copy of the Road and Bridge Laws, and am referring you to page 117, where you will find the detailed location of State Bond Issue Route 51, and you will find that the general location is very plainly fixed thru Frankfort, Orland and Palos Park to Justice.

"We appreciate the vast importance of a road thru Mokena and on the general line of Wolf Road, and we appreciate the hard fight you people have made for this location.

"I wish to call your attention to the fact that, and I feel you must understand, your fighting should have been done with the 53rd General Assembly before the location of this road became a law. After the legislature enacted the laws authorizing road construction, and the majority of the people of the State of Illinois approved of that action at a general election, I feel that you realize as thoroughly as I do that this Department does not have legislative authority to make general radical changes in the location of roads. We are simply selected by our friends for the purpose of carrying out the laws as enacted, and attempting to change a general location should and would meet with prompt legal action from the communities located under the law on such roads as we were attempting to change, and it would not only be a waste of time on our part and a waste of the people's money were we to even attempt to force a change from the general location of this road as outlined under the law enacting the bond issue system.

"An important question comes to my mind. If the 53rd General Assembly had named the city of Mokena in the law as they did Orland and Palos Park, I am wondering how many of the men who have demanded that we violate the law in the legal location of this road would have submitted to switching it from Mokena to a point two miles east instead of connecting up your city.

"We fully realize the importance of a concrete slab on Wolf Road, but we do not have authority to expend State bond issue or State funds on roads not named in the bond issue law. Your only recourse now is to take up this question with your county highway officials and board of supervisors."

Contracts were let by the State Highway Department this week on a number of bridges and culverts on Route 51 and construction work is to start at once.

Tinley To Vote on Three Issues

Tinley will vote on three special propositions next Tuesday as follows: Special tax for bond purposes; annexation of some Rauhoff subdivision property into the village limits; and whether licenses or permits shall be issued for sparring or wrestling matches or exhibitions in Tinley.

Voice of the People

Editor News-Bulletin:

We are informed that Supervisor Lankenau of Frankfort township with a committee from the village of Frankfort arranged with the Highway Department to put Route 51 from Route 44 thru the village of Frankfort on the one hundred million dollar bond issue.

Why did Supervisor Lankenau consider only the people of the village of Frankfort and vicinity and not the people of the village of Mokena and vicinity who elected him to the office of Supervisor when he, as their public servant should look after the interests of all the people in Frankfort township regardless of where they are located.

Why did Supervisor Lankenau disregard Wolf Road for Route 51 thru Mokena when he knew that Wolf Road was only 2 miles from the village of Frankfort via the Lincoln Highway and that Wolf Road was the only direct road from the Lincoln Highway through Mokena and that not another Highway in Frankfort township except the Lincoln Highway is used as much by the people of Frankfort and vicinity as Wolf Road?

If Supervisor Lankenau had considered the people of Mokena and vicinity he could have arranged with the State Highway Department at the time he arranged for Route 51 thru Frankfort for a route from Route 44 due north on Wolf Road thru Mokena to Route 4A on Archer Avenue.

Did Supervisor Lankenau consult the people of Mokena and vicinity whether or not they wanted a hard road on the one hundred million dollar bond issue?

Did the gentlemen who look after the political and other interests of the village of Mokena and vicinity know at the time or at any other time that Supervisor Lankenau had arranged to have Route 51 run thru Frankfort?

If they did and had the interest of the people of the village of Mokena and vicinity at heart why did they not inform the people of Mokena and vicinity so they could have arranged with the State Highway Department to put a hard road on Wolf Road thru Mokena to Route 4A on Archer Avenue on the hundred million dollar bond issue?

Let Supervisor Lankenau of the town of Frankfort and the gentlemen who look after the political interests of and welfare of the village of Mokena and vicinity answer the above questions as the people have a right to know the facts.

A HARD ROAD BOOSTER

Wants Progressive Board for Mokena

Editor News-Bulletin:

Next Tuesday every voter in the village of Mokena should go to the polls and vote the People's Ticket straight at the village election to be held at the village hall. Let the writer ask a few questions: What have the outgoing aldermen done in their tenure of office that they can point to as a record of something worth while accomplished for the village? What improvements did they put over? Sure they sought to put over a gigantic street paving program which would have run into thousands of dollars and would have been a burden of debt against the property owners for years to come. What we want are improvements of steady and gradual kind and not a flash in the pan or nothing at all. The candidates on the People's Ticket are progressive men and I feel will fill the requirements. We want a board that will do things for the advancement of the village in a right manner. We hear the cry that the village fathers are held down by debts so they cannot carry out the improvements they would like too, but a progressive board would find a way in which to get out of debt and yet carry out improvements. Vote THE PEOPLE'S TICKET STRAIGHT NEXT TUESDAY, AT MOKENA ELECTION! A MOKENA TAXPAYER.

167TH STREET NEEDS REPAIRS

Editor News-Bulletin:

The people on 167th street and those who traverse the road thru Oak Forest are ready to take up arms in the form of a petition of protest and present it to the proper officials of highway commissions against the terrible condition of the road. With increased taxes in property, automobile assessments, etc., where does the tax payer come in? Its all your life is worth to say nothing of your car to drive over 167th to Oak Forest these days. Three loads of crushed stone were dropped at one intersection of the road and left there. Had it been spread as it should have been some good might have been realized. As it is one can hardly plow thru it, and the greatest ruts are still as bad as ever with miles of it for the driver of high priced cars to endure. This road is entitled to consideration. Let every one use what influence they have to

Tinley Park News

Miss Verona Stelter who is soon to become bride of Rudolph Meyer of Coopers Grove, was tendered a miscellaneous shower April 5th. The affair was arranged by Miss Stelter's aunt, Mrs. Miller of Homewood. It was a complete surprise to the young couple when 14 cars advanced up the Stelter driveway, each blowing its horn with headlights casting a bright gleam across the spacious lawn. After the excitement of the surprise was over, packages were unpacked by the intended bride, containing the most beautiful gifts obtainable, French China tea set, in silver and gold, the latest electrical appliances for my lady's kitchen and boudoir, and other pieces too numerous to mention. Besides this these good friends brought the choicest of foods and prizes for the bunco game that was played.

A delightful evening was spent and it was a late hour when this happy party broke up. Another surprise shower awaited Miss Stelter on Thursday evening at the home of her aunt, Mrs. E. G. Koehler of Chicago. An immense angel food cake, the largest baked and beautifully adorned with little roses was the table's centerpiece. The table was laden with the choicest food obtainable. At this shower she received an abundance of expensive gifts: imported linens, lamps for all occasions, china and glass ware galore. There was hardly room for the driver of their car so full was it with lovely presents.

The wedding will be solemnized at the Bachelor Grove Lutheran Church. Rev. Greve will read the service, Sunday, April 24 at 3 p. m. after which a reception will be held at the home of the bride.

Is There An Error In 51 Routing?

The News-Bulletin wants to be absolutely fair in all statements printed in its columns. In a study of the reported routing from the Highway Department of road 51 we find what appears to us to be an error. We believe the intention was to have the road located on the east side of sections 28, 21, 16, 9 and 4 in T. 35 instead of "west side" as quoted in the report. We will be glad to verify this next week.

Orland To Have Some Ball Team

The Orland Baseball club has organized for the coming year after overcoming many obstacles to do so. The team this year will be the greatest that ever played ball in the history of Orland. The reason is this: because at the end of past season when the attendance at the games was getting larger and larger and the baseball public was taking a bigger interest in our team, we thought it our duty to have a team that will give more than 100 per cent. satisfaction to our patrons, also that our supporters, our payers and our town can well be proud of, as a leader in this surrounding community at the national pastime.

We have got together this wonderful aggregation of ball players at a great deal of expense and so we hope that the baseball public will patronize now as they have in the past. Some of our new players are none other than Johnnie Geitz, Eddie Thomas, B. Lunden, Geo. Remus and last but not least, our own "Chuck" Seifert with Eddie Thomas doing the catching. Open game will be played April 24th. Anyone seeking games call or write Raymond Ludwig, Orland, Ill. Tel. 76-J. Call between 6:30 and 9:30 p. m.

Weston Vote Recount Reveals Astounding Vote Frauds; Find Ballots Altered

The first witness called to prove that the ballots were properly taken care of from the time the polls closed in the 14th precinct the night of November 2, 1926, until they were turned over to the County Clerk in the Probate Court Room on the morning of November 3, 1926, was William E. Barnes.

William E. Barnes was a judge of election in the 14th precinct.

He is the Republican Committee man in the precinct and has since election been appointed to the office of Deputy Sheriff under the Democratic Sheriff in office. At present he is acting as Bailiff in the Probate Court.

Mr. Edward R. Nadelhoffer, Attorney of Alvah M. Weston et al, did the questioning on direct examination and he questioned Mr. Barnes from the time the proclamation was given at the closing of the polls until the time the ballots had been placed in the vault at the Zipf Bros. Garage, 643 S. Chicago Street, and the vault locked.

During the questioning Mr. Nadelhoffer asked how the count had been made and it appeared that the counting had been done by Robert E. Haley the Democratic judge in the precinct that the Republican judges had not made a separate count to see if it was correct. The count had not been made as required by law but by tally on separate sheets of paper which afterward had been added and then put upon the tally sheets. The law requires that you count from one pile and each ballot shall be tallied as it is called upon the official tally sheet.

The second witness called was Robert E. Haley, an attorney at law who was the Democratic judge of election at the 14th precinct. Mr. Haley knew little or nothing about what had transpired there on election day. The answer to majority of questions put to him by Mr. Nadelhoffer brought the answer "That he had no recollection". However, Mr. Haley was satisfied that he had gone to the Zipf garage on the morning of November 3, 1926 and had the ballots removed from the vault which was at that time open and placed in his car to be returned to the county clerk. He drove his car to the south side of the jail and left them in his car while he went to his office for reinforcements to help him. He encountered Joseph Welnitz and another man on the street, who offered to carry the ballots into the court house from the Jefferson Street entrance. (Mr. Welnitz was appointed to the office of deputy sheriff but has since resigned his position.)

The sack of ballots were then offered in evidence and identified by Mr. Haley who testified that from all appearances the sack was intact and in the same condition as when he turned them over to the county clerk deputies. There were 12 places where the sack and cord had been sealed with sealing wax and these were unbroken.

Wm. C. Brockmann, Republican judge in the 14th precinct then examined the sack and said he was sure he had used the die of the 14 precinct when sealing the sacks but none appeared on the gobs of sealing wax. (Mr. William C. Brockmann, it is said has been appointed to the position of Special Deputy Sheriff under the present Democratic Sheriff while Fred Brockmann, a brother of William Brockmann is a service deputy under Markgraf.

Mr. Barnes was again called to the stand and testified that the sack appeared to be in the same condition as when he last saw it as it was being placed in the vault on the night of Nov. 2, 1926.

The tellers were selected to keep tally for each party concerned and were as follows: For the Court, Everett Shaw, the court reporter; for Alvah M. Weston et al. Fred S. Cheney, For Albert E. Markgraf, Wm. E. Barnes. The official tally was kept by Mr. Shaw and it was understood that his tally would be right at all times and that Mr. Cheney and Mr. Barnes would keep tally for their parties only as a convenience.

The sack was opened under the flap so as not to disturb the cord or sealing wax and was in the custody of the county clerk, Albion F. Delander and deputy clerk, William Sorg. Mr. Delander handled each ballot to the attorney's to look over and if it was not objected to he would call the vote to the tellers.

The precinct had been fully tallied by Friday noon and disclosed the fact that Markgraf had 461; Weston 48; objected ballots 170; blanks 29; of the objected ballots, the petitioners had objected to 147 and the respondents to 123. The blank were ballots that had not been voted for either candidate for the office of sheriff.

The official canvass showed that Markgraf had received 636 votes and Weston 62. The total vote of the 14th precinct was 708 or leaving only 10 votes that were not voted for sheriff. The canvass in court shows 29 votes blank on a difference of 19 votes. The petitioners had the allegation in their petition that votes had been counted for Markgraf that had not been voted for Markgraf and this would appear on the surface that the allegation had been proven.

The petitioners objected to some 45 or more ballots that had been erased in the Republican party circle and which had the cross in the Democratic party circle. The petitioners had a high powered glass in court but the erasure in most cases were so apparent that it was not necessary to use the glass. Many ballots objected to by the petitioners had a different cross in the Democratic party circle than what was used in the body of the ballot. These appeared to be made by a pencil with different lead and in most cases the cross was about the same in appearance. Some four or five ballots had not been initialed by the judges and other ballots were objected to because the name of Alvah M. Weston had been obliterated by drawing the pencil thru the name. The petitioners objected to these as distinguishing marks.

Most of the objections by the respondents were objected to by the respondents. (continued on back page)

Sanitation Kills
All Swine Risks

Use of System Transforms Industry on Many Farms, at Small Cost.

On many farms the hog business has been transformed through the use of the simple system of swine sanitation which the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, has been demonstrating over the state during the past few years in co-operation with county farm advisers and interested farmers, according to E. T. Robbins, live stock extension specialist.

Last year, for instance, 1,213 farmers in 75 counties of the state co-operated in demonstrating the methods and results of the system to their neighbors. Before the end of the year there were 100 written reports sent in by farm demonstrators from 38 counties. These have been summarized to show results under practical farm conditions.

Sanitation Pigs Best.

These farmers raised 94 per cent of the pigs which were saved at farrowing time, and only one runt developed among every 71 pigs on the average, as compared with one runt to each 11 pigs among those raised the old way. With sanitation the litters raised averaged 1.5 pigs more than previously upon the same farms; the pigs averaged 24 pounds heavier when four months old, and they were ready for market at usual weights when they averaged six weeks younger than usual. The sanitation pigs proved to be more profitable than others, and the men plan to continue to use this sanitation system.

Reports from 39 counties indicate that sanitation herds are comparatively free from "serum breaks" and other troubles after vaccination; that they seem to escape "flu" better than other herds, and that they seem to show more resistance to cholera than do herds raised the old-style "wormy way."

Expensive Equipment Not Needed.

The sanitation system does not require expensive equipment nor supplies. The reports show that the size of litters raised to four months old was actually increased by the use of small field houses for farrowing. The size of litters raised was not much affected by the month of farrowing. The average was 6.3 pigs a litter.

There were fewest runts to 100 pigs where no hogs had been on the pasture for at least a year. The percentage of runts was smallest in large pastures. There were also the fewest runts where there was running water to drink.

There was very little loss of sanitation pigs from sore mouth whether their sharp teeth were cut at birth or not. The size of litters raised was not increased nor the number of runts reduced by the use of expensive minerals. The largest litters were raised and there were the fewest runts where the sanitation work was thoroughly done.

With such a splendid showing in health, vigor, uniformity, cheap gains and larger profits in sanitation herds, it is safe to conclude, as many farmers have said, that, "This is the right way to raise pigs in Illinois," Robbins said.

Early Radishes Favored
Over Later Varieties

Radishes have been cultivated by men for many ages. In medieval times, barons spiced the feasts in the castles with dishes of the long and very hot varieties now grown for summer use, such as Chartier and White Strassburg. These take twice as long to mature as the early varieties now available to us, such as the earliest White Olive, Twenty Day, Saxa and Scarlet Globe. Improvements in most vegetables run decidedly to the production of varieties which mature earlier, and probably the greatest advantage which we have over our ancestors in the vegetable garden is the possession of more early kinds. The early radishes are more tender and milder in flavor than the late sorts, but at the same time, quick to turn pithy, so they must be eaten as soon as they mature.

Agricultural Facts

High wages accent the "saving" in labor-saving equipment.

Chickens need sunlight to prevent rickets. Don't be stingy—sunlight is free.

Soy bean hay is a close second to alfalfa. Ground soy beans are fully equal to linseed meal in feeding value.

A coating of wax on the kitchen linoleum makes it easier to clean, makes it wear better, and gives it a rich luster.

Nine times out of ten cheap seed is priced low because it contains much dirt or weed seeds, or it has a low germination.

An excellent way to stimulate demand for any commodity is to improve the quality of that thing and then tell everybody about it.

A VARIETY OF DISHES

We think of pork as a winter food, but it will take the place in the following dishes of other fats:

Pork Cake.—Take one cupful of salt pork chopped, cover with one cupful of boiling water, three eggs, one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of raisins, one teaspoonful of soda, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, one cupful of molasses and two cupfuls of dried apple chopped, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful each of cloves and nutmeg. Cook the molasses, dried apple and spices on the back of the stove for three hours, then add the other ingredients and flour to make the desired thickness. Bake in a large loaf.

Broiled Smoked Herring.—Cover the herring with boiling water for ten minutes. While the fish is still hot drain and wipe dry and brush with two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one of lemon juice and a dash of paprika. Sprinkle with parsley when ready to serve.

Jellied Chicken.—Cut up a four-pound chicken as for fricassee. Put on to cook with one small onion, one bay leaf, one blade of mace, three cloves, pepper and salt to taste. Simmer slowly until the chicken is tender. When done cut it from the bones and skin. Put the bones and skin back into the kettle and simmer an hour. Cover one-fourth of a box of gelatin with a little cold water and let it soak. Add gelatin to the liquor, stir until dissolved, then strain. Add salt and pepper to season. There should be three cupfuls of the liquor when done. The next day remove the fat from the top of the jelly, then pour half of it into a square mold and stand on ice to harden. When firm put a layer of the chicken on top of the jelly, add slices of hard-cooked egg, using three; sprinkle with seasoning, add more chicken and eggs until all are used. Pour over the remainder of the jelly, which should cover the chicken. Let stand on ice overnight before unmolding.

Vienna Steaks.—Chop one-fourth of a pound each of raw lean beef and veal, removing all the tougher portions. Season with salt, paprika and celery salt, a few gratings of nutmeg, a teaspoonful each of onion juice and lemon juice. Add one beaten egg and mix well, then shape into small steaks. Put into a well buttered hot pan and fry brown on both sides. Cook six to eight minutes.

Seasonable Foods.
Those who like and can eat veal will enjoy the following dish:

Paprika Schnitzel.—Cut two pounds of thick veal steak into small pieces and roll in seasoned flour. Brown in fat from several slices of salt pork. Remove the meat from the pan and add two tablespoonfuls of flour to the fat in the pan, brown lightly, then pour in the liquid from a can of tomatoes. Add a slice each of onion and carrot and a blade of mace, then return the meat to the sauce. Cover and simmer for three-fourths of an hour. When done remove the meat to a hot platter, add paprika and seasonings to the sauce and pour over the meat.

Chicken With Macaroni.—Take a cupful or two of minced chicken, a cupful of macaroni. Cook the macaroni until tender in salted, boiling water, drain and put a layer into a buttered baking dish, cover with a layer of chicken, then one of white sauce, repeat until all is used. Cover with buttered crumbs and brown.

Sardine Sandwich.—Drain two cans of sardines. Remove the skins and bones and mince very fine. Then pound to a paste with one tablespoonful of anchovy paste. Press the yolks of six hard-cooked eggs through a ricer and finely chop the whites. Season with salt and cayenne and mix all together. Cut sandwiches after preparing into narrow strips and serve with a potato salad.

Oatmeal Gruel.—Grind one-half cupful of oatmeal, put into a tumbler and fill with cold water. Stir and pour off the milky water into a saucepan, fill the glass again, pour off, repeat as long as the water looks milky. Set the saucepan on the back of the stove and simmer for two hours. Strain, season with salt and serve with thin cream or milk.

The important thing to remember in preparing gruels is that a long time is needed to soften and dissolve the starch in the grains, which is not easily digested unless well cooked.

Oatmeal Sausage.—Take stock in which meat has been cooked and when boiling hot chicken with oatmeal; season well with salt and when nearly done add some chopped meat. Pour out into a mold and when cold slice and fry the same as any scrapple.

Actor Reveals
Secret of Health

Biliousness, Indigestion and Dizziness Caused by Run-Down Condition, Relieved by Tanlac.

R. E. Fulton, popular professional entertainer, 413 North Clark Street, Chicago, says: "Twenty years in the show business undermined my health, sapped my energy, upset my stomach and made me a prey to nervousness."

"When I began taking Tanlac, I had almost given up hope of recovering my lost health. Biliousness and headaches bothered me so that I was nervous, always tired and irritable. From morning till night I suffered. Indigestion pains and heartburn after every meal."

"I want the world to know about Tanlac. For it has returned to me my lost health, built up my strength."

Tanlac, nature's remedy made from roots, bark and herbs according to the famous Tanlac formula usually wipes out constipation, tones up sluggish liver, puts stomach in shape, vanquishes pain and builds strength. Regain good health. Get Tanlac at your druggist's. Over 40 million bottles sold.

The DOOM TRAIL

"Ta-wan-ne-ars has only one regret that he is to die," he said. "That is because he cannot live to find your lost soul and return it to you."

She laughed harshly. "Ta-wan-ne-ars is a child," she said. "His heart is turned to water. He talks of things which are not. My soul is here." She tapped her left breast. "It does not matter, however, for the Ga-go-sa Ho-nun-as-tase-ta does not need a soul as other mortals do."

She turned on her heel abruptly, and followed the priests into the long bark house from which they had emerged. The great mob of Indians melted away as soon as she left us. They all but fled in order to reach their lodges before sundown, and so hurried were our guards that in removing us from the stakes to the Council-House in the center of the village they forebore to beat or maltreat us.

In the Council-House they supplied us with a liberal meal of meat and vegetables. Then our bonds were replaced and we were covered with robes, whilst our guards covered close to the fire in abject fear. They started at the slightest movement. Had we been able to stir hand or foot I think we might have won our freedom. But they used care in binding us, and we lay inert as corpses.

"What do they fear?" I whispered to Ta-wan-ne-ars at length, desirous of hearing a friendly voice.

"I do not know exactly, brother," he said. "These Cahnugas are renegades from the Great League."

"But the Moon feast they talk about," I persisted. "What is that?" "It is some invention of their own," he replied. "Perhaps Murray or De Veulle helped them with it. My people know nothing of such things."

Through the bark walls of the house came the weird, minor melody which had attended the appearance of the Mistress of the False Faces, mingled with shrieks, groans, screams and yells. Our guards huddled closer together. They abandoned their weapons and covered their heads with blankets. A drum throbbed near by, and at intervals sounded the wailing chant of the masked priests and the thudding of dancing feet.

The uproar increased in violence. Women's voices, some in dreadful protestation, some in eager ecstasy, joined in it. It was near, then, at a distance, then returning. And occasionally that one shrill, sweet voice quelled the saturnalia and was lifted on a note of pagan exultation—only to be drowned in the thrumming of drums.

Our fire dwindled and was rekindled. The night crept on toward the dawn. The monotony of the noises, the endless repetition, deadened the senses, and we slept. When I awakened, 'twas to see the daylight trickling through the smoke-hole in the roof.

Somewhere in the sunshine a bird began to sing, and my captors yawned and sat up. The squat chief, his fears of the night gone, kicked Ta-wan-ne-ars awake.

"This is the day of the Moon feast," he said. "You will soon clamor to die."

CHAPTER X

The Moon Feast

We were yanked to our feet and pushed outside. Thousands of Indians lined the narrow, dirty streets between the bark houses and lodges. They greeted us with a silence so intent that it was as arresting as a shout. Not a finger was laid upon us, not a voice was raised. Yet the fierce anticipation which gleamed in every face was more threatening than definite gestures.

Ahead of us opened the flat expanse of the dancing-place, with the two lonely stakes, flanked by piles of freshly gathered firewood, standing like portents of evil against the dark-green background of the pines which walled the rear of the amphitheater.

Ta-wan-ne-ars looked eagerly in every direction, but she whom he sought was not present nor were there visible any of the carrion crew of priests. Only the sinister faces of the negro, Tom, and Bolling, with his tangle of red hair, stirred recollections in that alien, hostile mass.

Our guards bound us to the stakes as they had the day before, and Ta-wan-ne-ars, with a significant glance at me, rallied them with the searching wit of his race.

"The Cahnuga dogs are not used to taking captives," he commented. "They are women. They should be tilling the field. They do not know how to torment real warriors."

When they were passing the thongs under his arm-pits, the Seneca bent forward and fastened his teeth in the forearm of the incautious guard. The blood spurted and the man yelped with pain. Ta-wan-ne-ars laughed.

"Unarmed and bound, yet I can hurt you," he cried. "Truly, you are women. The warriors of the Great League scorn you."

Strangely enough, they made no retaliation upon him; but, having securely fastened us to the stakes, withdrew and stood somewhat apart from the encompassing crowds.

The silence continued for more than an hour, when a lane was opened opposite to us and Murray and De Veulle sauntered forward.

"I trust you have fared well, Master Juggins—I beg pardon, Master Ormored?" remarked Murray urbanely.

"No discomforts? Enough to eat and sufficient attention?"

and thrust for the one weak spot in the man's armor of egotism.

"You do proclaim yourself for what you are," I answered him steadily. "Sure, no man of breeding would descend to the depths you reach. I do assure you, fellow, if you ever return to civilization and attempt to mix with the gently bred, your plowboy origin will out."

His face was suffused to a purple hue.

"Sdeath!" he rasped. "Sir, know you not I am of the Murrys of Coblelaw? I quarter my arms with the Kleths! I have a right to carry the Bleeding Heart on my shield! I—"

"No, no," I interrupted. "Tis easy for you to claim here in the wilderness, but the humblest cadet of the house of Douglas would disprove you. I dislike to speak ill of any woman, and certes I could weep for the grief of her who conceived you, whatever she was. But I make no doubt she was some Huron squaw."

His face went dead white. "I was pleased with overlong to spare you," he said in accents so cold that the words fell like icicles breaking from the rocks. "I am glad I resisted. I shall give orders now that your torments be the most ingenious our savages can devise."

"I doubt it not," I said. "You will die in much agony," he continued placidly. "Nobody will ever know of your taunts. And I—his vanity flared up again—"I shall die a marquis and a duke."

"And a convicted criminal," I added. He murmured to De Veulle and walked away, the savages moving from his path as if he were death in person, for indeed they feared him, more even than they feared Black Robe and their own accursed priests. He was the master of all.

"So you are to be chief torturer, monsieur le chevalier?" I remarked to De Veulle.

"Even so," he agreed.

"There could not be a fitter," I said sympathetically.

"I thank you for your appreciation," he replied. "I have instructed the savages to give you the long torment. You will be still alive this time tomorrow. Think of it! Your Iroquois friend knows what that means—an eyeless, bloody wreck of a man, begging to be slain!"

He beckoned to the Cahnuga chief. "Let loose your people," he ordered, and stepped back.

The Cahnuga put his hand to his mouth, and the high-pitched, soaring notes of the war-whoop resounded through the air. And as if one directing center animated them all the thousands of savages closed in on us, yelling and shrieking, weapons menacing, feet pounding the measures of some clumsy dance.

They swirled round and round us, those who could get nearest dashing up to the stakes to mock at us or threaten us with words and weapons. Nobody touched us, but the strain of constantly expecting physical assault was nerve-racking. Ta-wan-ne-ars smiled serenely at them all, and when he could make himself heard, returned their threats.

Not Much Doubt as to Where She Stood

Attorney W. B. Ward tells of the utterance of a client he once had in Kansas City that he regarded as a classic in finality. The client was of ebon hue and was asking to be divorced from what she termed the "most noaccountest, triflingest man that breathed."

Judge Birney figured such exclamation indicated another sultor somewhere in the background. By clever questioning he attempted to wring from the irate witness that there was another man in the case, but she stoutly denied such inference and continued with the denunciation of the hapless spouse. After an hour the court decided the plaintiff had earned her decree and so indicated, but in passing judgment he observed verbally that the plaintiff would in all probability be married again within a month. Disregarding formality and

This continued for a long time. Twilight was at hand before they dropped back, and a select band of young warriors began to exhibit their skill with bow and arrow, knife and tomahawk. Arrows were shot between our arms and bodies; tomahawks hurtled into the posts beside our ears; knives were hurled from the far side of the open space, so closely aimed that their points shaved our naked ribs. Once in a while we were scratched; the handle of a tomahawk, poorly thrown, raised a bump on my forehead. And De Veulle, squatting on the ground with a knot of chiefs, applauded the show.

It went on and on. New forms of mental torture were constantly devised. Darkness closed down, and the fires beside the stakes were lighted. I was in a daze. I had ceased to feel fear or misgiving. I was conscious only of a great weariness and thirst.

Of a sudden I realized that the shouting had died down. The prancing figures were at rest. But into the circle of firelight swayed the hideous column of False Faces, their masks of monstrous birds and beasts and reptiles seeming alive with horrid purpose in the shifting gloom, their feet moving harmoniously in the hesitant step of the dance, their voices united in the monotonous music of their chant.

They strung a circle, as they had done the day before, and halted, heads wabbling this way and that. There was a brief pause, and I noticed De Veulle, risen to his feet and staring intently behind me, where the wall of pines made a perfect background for the spectacle. A sigh burst from the half-seen throngs of savages.

"Ga-go-sa Ho-nun-as-tase-ta!" I craned my neck, and as well as the things permitted me peered around the stake to which I was lashed. A white figure fitted from the protection of the trees and glided toward us. The False Faces started a queer, rhythmic air, accompanied by gently throbbing drums. The figure commenced to dance, arms wide, hair floating free. Beside me Ta-wan-ne-ars choked back a groan of hate and love and fought fruitlessly against the rawhide thongs.

'Twas Ga-ha-no. She wore again her ceremonial uniform, the kilt and moccasins; but this time they were white, fashioned of skins taken from the bellies of young dogs. Her limbs and body, too, were coated with some white substance that made her gleam like a delicate marble statue when she postured in the flickering radiance of the fires.

She tossed up her arms in a curving gesture toward the moon, riding low above the treetops. The music of the attendant priests swung into a faster measure, the pulsing of the drums became subtly disturbing, commanding.

"O So-a-ka-ga-gwa," she cried, "I, your servant, the Mistress of the False Faces, begin now the Moon feast we make in your honor!"

She resumed her dance, but 'twas very different from the graceful, pleasing steps she had first used. I know not how to describe it, save perhaps that 'twas like the music, provocative, appealing to the basest instincts in man, indecent with a peculiarly attractive indecency. It was, I think, the dance of creation, of the impulse of life, one of the oldest and in its perverted way one of the truest dances which man ever devised. It could only be danced by a savage people, primitive and unashamed.

Faster went the measure of the dance. Faster whirled the glistening white figure. Now she danced before us, her eyes burning with mockery—I know not what—of Ta-wan-ne-ars. Now she spun around the open space in a series of intricate steps and posturings.

The music worked up to a crescendo, the drums thudding with furious speed. Ga-ha-no leaped high in air and raised her arms toward the moon, whose sickle shape was no whiter or fairer than she.

The chant stopped in the middle of a note, and as her feet touched the ground again she ran lightly across the amphitheater and threw herself into De Veulle's arms. He tossed her upon his shoulder.

"The Moon feast is open, O my people," she called back as he disappeared with her into the shadows.

All those thousands of people went mad. The dancing-place became a wild tumult of naked savages, men and women, leaping in groups and couples to the renewed music of the False Faces. Decency and restraint were cast aside.

even with contempt the woman took her stand in front of the bench and fixing Judge Birney with her eyes she exclaimed:

"Judge, the man I'd marry again ain't been born yet and furthermore his mother's daid."

HOME ORCHARD IS SADLY NEGLECTED

For every apple tree bearing a good crop it is safe to say that more than a thousand have been planted and allowed to die because of diseases and neglect. It is estimated by Dr. H. W. Anderson, associate chief of pomological pathology at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. If any out of the thousands do survive the diseases they are allowed to become a menace to neighboring commercial orchards which are cared for properly, he said. Better by far that all home orchards should be destroyed than that they should be allowed to breed diseases and insects to infest commercial orchards which represent the investment of fortunes, he believes.

"All of our common fruits suffer each year from numerous diseases. These are due to a variety of causes, such as fungi, bacteria and weather and soil conditions. In some years, such as the past, when dry weather prevails during the spring and early summer, the diseases are few, while in a year of normal rainfall or an excessive rainfall in the spring months, fruit crops that are not carefully protected by sprays are a total failure on account of the numerous diseases."

"Spraying is usually effective in controlling diseases, but some of the bacterial diseases such as fire blight of apple and pear have never been successfully controlled. Spraying, however, unless properly done, is of little value and under any condition is expensive. To those having small farm orchards, the cost of spray apparatus and the time required to make the applications render this method of control highly impractical. Farmers and city dwellers with small plantings have realized this, as evidenced by the neglected orchards and small fruit plantations observed in every section of the state.

"Roadside marketing, however, has made it possible for those who have the advantage of such markets to grow small plantations of trees and other fruits and make them pay. Since spraying operations are costly, these growers should make every effort to reduce their expenses by proper attention to other factors which will reduce the amount of injury.

"When the time comes to spray, study the problem of the type of spray apparatus which will be needed not only when the orchard is young but several years after it comes into bearing. Buy only the best type of spray apparatus. On this point you should consult your experiment station experts. Know what you are spraying for and study the varieties. Much expense can be saved in this way, for it will be found that certain of the varieties never scab or blotch or mildew."

"Some plan of co-operation with other growers in the neighborhood can often be put into effect so that a 'spray ring' can be formed and much better apparatus can be purchased. This problem should be carefully studied, since spray rings have not proved successful in many cases, due to lack of efficient organization.

"New spray materials recommended by the manufacturers should never be tried without first consulting the experiment station. Many of these are not only more expensive but are less efficient than well-known and tried preparations."

Black Raspberries Are Different From the Red

Black raspberries are different from the reds in more ways than one; different in color and in flavor of fruit; the bush is larger and more spreading in habit; therefore, the plants require more room. Set two and one-half to three feet in the row and rows about six feet apart. The plants each consist of a shaggy bunch of fine roots with a short piece of stem in the center, which is of no importance at all, surrounded by dormant buds which will push up and make fine strong shoots for next year, if—and listen closely to this if you will surely fail. These buds must not be buried deeply in planting or they will never appear above ground and you will lose what you paid for the plants plus your time. Cover the roots, of course, but leave the bud center close to the surface covered with not more than an inch of loose soil, or set the whole plant three or four inches below the surface, being careful not to cover the buds too deeply. As the shoots grow, hoeing and cultivating will fill the hole.

Before the end of the season, the shoots, three or four of them, will reach a height of three to four feet, each one dividing into two or more branches. The stronger ones should be staked and tied to prevent breaking by wind or in cultivating.

Repair Grape Trellises

A vineyard chore which should have attention in the early spring is the repair of the grape trellises. Missing staples should be replaced, though not driven so tightly as to pinch the wires, and the wires tightened. Loose posts should be firmed down and rotted ones be replaced. The strain due to heavy cane growth and the pressure of winds is great on the trellis in a good vineyard and much fruit may be saved by caring for it. Canes usually are tied with square or granny knots.

Costume Designed to Keep Promise in Mind

The wearing of "promisa" costumes in Santo Domingo is a custom that still holds, despite the opening up of highways and the general use of motor transportation. These costumes are often of vivid patchwork, featuring red, white and blue, and serve to remind the wearer that he or she has made a vow that must be kept.

Such vows are often nonreligious in character and involve the wearing of sackcloth. Suits and dresses of this rough fabric are frequently used. The periods for which "promises" are made vary from three months to a year. Persons of high social standing sometimes vow to wear nothing but silk for a certain period, a promise not so hard to keep as that of women who vow to wear rough linen undergarments.

Present Age Not One of Formality

William Lyon Phelps has a new name for this age.

"In 1927," he writes in Scribner's Magazine, "men are not yet able to wear doublet and hose, and while the newest dinner-jackets show some startling variations, the evening dress of gentlemen is fairly uniform. But the golf stockings that I am wearing at this blessed moment would have been hooted at in the streets in 1890. Women arrange their hair and their features in public; if a man of the nineties could suddenly wake up and find himself in a modern theater, the audience would afford a more arresting spectacle than the play."

"There is nothing immoral in all this; but it is certainly informal. This universal informality makes the manners and clothes of 1890 seem as remote as the Thirteenth century."

The Eel in History

Quebec has made its annual shipment of live eels to New York city by way of the New York State canal. They comprised a total of 168 tons of slippery, squirming vitality and required the services of specially constructed tank vessels. This is the most interesting incident in the history of the eel family since an Eighteenth century Connecticut minister, Rev. Nathaniel Eells, being a graduate of Harvard and, of course, a Latinist, gave the stream that ran through his farm the name of Anguilla brook, a designation it bears to this day.

Pictures on the Clouds

Successful experiments in projecting pictures on the clouds, recently carried out at Jena, Germany, may result in the sky being used as a giant advertising board.

By means of this invention pictures may be thrown, giant-size, on the clouds, and during the recent experiments pictures came out with great clearness.

It is thought that in the near future it will be possible to show moving pictures in this way. But what would the proprietors of cinema theaters have to say about such an innovation?

Bavarian Firewomen

Why not firewomen as well as policemen, women chauffeurs, elevator girls, and all the rest? The little community of Oberloch, in the Algan Alps of Bavaria, which lies at an altitude of 1,136 meters, is a long way from the larger villages in the valley below and cannot count upon them for help in case of fire. The women and girls have organized themselves into a fire brigade and so well are they trained that when an alarm of fire was recently sounded they beat the men to it.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Bringing Up Father

Another great domestic upheaval is reported by the Woman's Home Companion: Fathers have been admitted to parent-teacher associations. Poor old father, blinking and dazed, his head feeling reely, can now say to himself: "At last I'm a parent! I'm a parent!"

Foolish Questions

"Did you fall down?" asked the man who had hastened to his assistance.

"No!" growled Mr. Grouch, "of course not! I fell up and if you'll get out of the way I'll climb down."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

ORLAND

The Orland Township spelling contest held at the Orland school last Friday afternoon was an interesting one. Quite a number of the pupils received perfect score badges. Miss McMahon was obliged to give eight lists of words in order to eliminate the contestants down to two in number. Those who will act as delegates from Orland Township at the Cook County contest at Chicago, on April 30 are Milton Woodrich and Loretta Erickson, both of District 138. Milton Woodrich also won the banner which Mr. Tobin presents to the champion speller of each township. Mrs. Woodrich is the teacher of District 138.

Uncle Tom's Cabin to a great extent was responsible for the outcome of the Civil War. In order to give everyone an opportunity to see the feature play the Young People's Society of Christ Lutheran Church has arranged for two performances one at 4:15 and another at 8:00 p. m.

A special educational photo-play will be given at the Orland Public School Auditorium, on April 20th 1927. This photo play is one of the few which has the recommendation of leading educators.

The play will be Uncle Tom's Cabin which is shown according to the story, which is known to everyone.

Easter services at Christ Lutheran church Easter morning at 10:00 a. m. with communion. Confessional services at 9:30.

Easter Service, English, at 7:30 p. m.

Evelyn Hughes and Mrs. Ed. Schachon were admitted to membership in Christ Lutheran on Sunday by the rite of confirmation.

The baby boy of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Yunker was christened Sunday, name given Van Earl.

The baby girl of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicolai was admitted to membership of Christ Church Sunday. The baptism took place at the home. The name given, Ruth Lavin.

The organ concert given April 10, at Christ Lutheran church was attended by an appreciative audience.

ORLAND M. E. NOTES,
Elmer L. Setterlund, pastor.

During this week our church is co-operating with the Palos Park Presbyterian church and the Worth Community church in the holding of Passion-Week services.

The first was held at Orland on Monday evening April 11th.

The three churches were represented both by ministers and laity.

The service at Orland was under the general direction of the pastor of the Orland M. E. Church, Elmer L. Setterlund. He preached the sermon. Rev. Paul Sanders of Worth conducted the vesper services and the Rev. P. Forry also assisted in the meeting. Rev. P. Forry and Mrs. Lois Ludwig sang a duet.

The service on Wed. was held at Worth and was of a somewhat different nature, under the general direction of the pastor for the Worth Community church.

The service for Good Friday will be held at the Palos Park Presbyterian church and will be under the guidance of Rev. Paul Forry pastor of the church. The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

Sunday will be Easter and Rally Day for the Orland M. E. church.

The Sunday school will give an Easter program at the regular Sunday school time 9:30. Immediately following the program there will be an Easter service with special music by the choir.

In the evening the 4th and 5th crises in the Life of Christ will be given with the aid of stereopticon pictures. This will be the climax of the day.

Last Sunday evening, April 10th there was a very appreciative audience who enjoyed the third crisis in the Life of Christ. Special music was rendered by Mrs. Clarence Beagley and Mrs. Frank Mahaffay.

On Sunday evening April 24th there will be an intercommunity service at the Worth Community church. The pastor of Orland M. E. church will give an address on Japan based on his experience in that country assisted by a set of hand-colored photographs from that country. The public is cordially invited.

The young people of the Orland M. E. church expect to give a play in the near future. Further announcement later.

It is expected that a group of young people from both Worth and Orland will go to the Annual Spring Rally and Convention of the Southern District of the Epworth League, which will be held at the Thornton Methodist Episcopal church, 64th and Paulina St. Chicago on Saturday April 23rd, from 3 to 7:30 p. m. The outstanding attraction will be a speech by Prof. Howard McClusky of the University of Michigan. Prof. McClusky is said to be the youngest man ever awarded the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Chicago. Dr. McClusky has won national fame as a speaker under the auspices of The Student Fellowship movement.

How It Looks to Others

Determination in a friend may look like bull-headedness in an enemy, and self-respect in a friend may appear as conceit in one not so loved.—Marion (Ala.) County News.

Your Kidneys Must Function Properly For You to be Well

LATE hours, rich foods and stimulating drinks are all hard on our kidneys. If their action becomes sluggish, they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes.

Such poisons may make one dull, tired and aching, with often a toxic backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common symptom of imperfect kidney function is scanty or burning excretions.

Thousands have learned the virtue of Doan's Pills, stimulant diuretic in these conditions. 50,000 users have publicly recommended Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

50,000 Users Endorse Doan's:
Lambert W. Cox, Westover, Md., says: "Doan's Pills proved their value to me. My kidneys acted sluggishly and the secretions were scant and scalding. There was such a soreness across my back that I couldn't bend or stoop. I was told to use Doan's Pills and shall always be glad that I did. They put me in fine shape."

Financier

All winter he has been the envy of Broadway's sheiks and flappers because of his gorgeous overcoat. The other day he made the rounds without it, to the wonderment of all who knew him.

"It cost me $550," he remarked, "and there was a final payment of $100 due, so I decided, inasmuch as spring is near at hand, to do a bit of financing. I hooked the coat for $150 and paid the $100 due and had $50 left for spending money. The coat is in storage for the summer months and by next fall I ought to be able to dig up the $150 to get it out of uncle's shop."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Illinois legislators in a recent conference with Gov. John Hamilton, members of his cabinet, and Iowa legislators at Des Moines were assured of the co-operation of Iowa in a plan to secure uniform fish and game conservation laws for states bordering the Mississippi river. Senator Earl B. Searcy, chairman of the Illinois joint commission; Director William J. Stratton of the state department of conservation; and Representatives John Ackler of Savanna, Truman A. Snell of Carlinville, and James Reeves of Champaign were the legislators who attended the conference. A similar conference with Wisconsin officials at Madison is planned.

State Entomologist W. P. Flint of Urbana discussed the European corn borer at the weekly meeting of the Springfield Kiwanis club on Wednesday, April 6. The meeting was in charge of the agricultural committee and was open to the public.

With an initial edition to be mailed April 15 the Illinois department of agriculture is launching a new service in the form of a monthly bulletin of specific information regarding the progress and condition of the leading fruit and vegetable crops of the state. Data will be obtained through the field representatives of the division of standardization and markets, and through the circularization by that department of a thousand commercial growers; this will be supplemented by information available through the division of co-operative crop estimates, and the whole will be summarized and condensed into a general review under the supervision of Joe W. Cummins. Copies of the review will be obtainable upon application to the department of agriculture, Springfield.

Henry B. Rankin, who studied law in the office of Abraham Lincoln at the time Lincoln was a member of the firm of Lincoln & Herndon, celebrated his ninetieth birthday at his home in Springfield on Thursday, April 7. Mr. Rankin is recognized as an authority on the life of Lincoln; he has written two books, "Personal Recollections of Abraham Lincoln," published in 1916, and "Intimate Character Sketches of Abraham Lincoln," published in 1924, and is consulted by students and persons of note from all parts of the country, inasmuch as he is probably the only living person who had so intimate an acquaintance with Lincoln.

An increase of approximately $400,000 in the appropriation to the five normal schools of the state was urged as a necessity if the schools are to meet the present-day demands, when the presidents of the five schools called upon Governor Small in his office recently. In addition to the five presidents, a committee from the official board, A. M. Shelton, director of the state department of registration and education, five senators from the districts in which the schools are located and the fifteen house members were present. Bills for the money needed to conduct the institutions have not been introduced in the general assembly up to date.

Lawrence Farlow, secretary of the Illinois Farmers' Grain Dealers' association, has announced the advent of the Rural Grain company, a subsidiary of the National Farmers' Elevator Grain company, into the Chicago Board of Trade. The farmers' company will become active in the cash grain market at once.

Governor Small is urging that "Clean-Up Week," the week of April 11, be given state-wide observance. Pointing out that the state's wonderful roads and natural advantages will be the means of drawing many visitors, the governor urges that the people of the villages and rural districts as well as the townspeople do all in their power to enable these visitors to carry away a worthy estimate of the state and its people. "Pep Up and Clean Up. Spring Is Here," may well be the motto of the people of Illinois.

Prohibition Administrator John B. Madden recently reported to the federal government a total of 448 inspections made in the Springfield district during the last six months. Fines aggregating $171,057 were assessed against 542 defendants in 337 cases; property valued at $302,641 was seized by agents during the period in this district, and jail sentences totaling 58 years, 5 months and 9 days were imposed and in addition penitentiary sentences totaling 12 years and 4 days for Fort Leavenworth and four years for the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.

Announcement has been made from the office of the secretary of state that Hon. Louis L. Emmerson has prescribed certain rules and regulations governing the conduct of brokers and dealers in real estate bonds. The new rules became effective April 1, not to be retroactive. The purpose of these regulations is to require financial stability of mortgage bankers and underwriters of bond issues; to make certain that the bond issue will be clearly within the limits prescribed by law; to require that funds necessary to complete building projects will be provided and maintained; to require specific guarantee of the house of issue or the underwriter of the completion of the building under construction; and accuracy in circulars and advertising matter relating to bond issues.

A bill offered by Representative Waller, Tamaroa, designed to furnish relief to counties of the state unable to meet expenses, will be considered at a session of the house committee on judiciary. It provides for an increase in the levy for county purposes from fifty to sixty cents on the hundred-dollar valuation and decreases the tax for maintenance of state-aid roads from twenty-five to fifteen cents.

Prof. H. E. Babbitt, professor of municipal and sanitary engineering at the University of Illinois, is conducting experiments in vented plumbing for the University of Illinois on the roof of the new Ridgely-Farmers' Bank building, Springfield. The expense of this project is being carried by the Master Plumbers' association and the state association. The purpose of the experiments is to show the practicability of using vents to allow air to enter the pipes in the plumbing systems of tall buildings and thus avoid breaks occasioned by overloading the system.

Plans for the construction of a sea wall at Beardstown that will furnish immunity from flood for that city at a river stage of 31 feet have been completed and specifications are now being worked out to submit to contractors, as a working basis for figuring their bids, according to an announcement made by Gov. Len Small on April 1. An appropriation of $350,000 for this purpose was voted by the legislature in 1925, and under the law this money must be expended by October of the present year. It is claimed that this wall will take care of any flood that may occur under existing conditions, though an increase in the amount of water diverted from Lake Michigan by the Chicago sanitary district might at some future time make necessary the heightening of the wall. It will be remembered that the city was inundated last fall at a flood crest of 20½ feet; while the proposed wall will furnish protection at 31 feet.

Homer J. Coppock of the Central Y. M. C. A. school, Chicago, headed a party of 25 students in a visit to Lincoln's tomb at Oak Ridge cemetery, Springfield. Mr. Coppock brings a class once a year and he is careful to arrange time enough for the students to derive all the benefit possible from such a trip.

The sixty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Grand Army of the Republic was commemorated on Wednesday, April 6, by the erection of two bronze tablets in the east corridor of the statehouse one of which is inscribed with Lincoln's Gettysburg address and the other with John A. Logan's general order establishing Memorial day. Past Commander in Chief John B. Inman presided at the dedicatory exercises and W. E. Barnett, acting for Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson, who was unable to be present, made the speech of acceptance. Flo Jamieson Miller, past national president of the Woman's Relief corps and the present national secretary, gave a history of the tablets. The general order establishing Memorial day, inscribed on one of the tablets, was issued by John A. Logan while he was commander in chief of the G. A. R. It is the plan of the Woman's Relief corps to place tablets of this kind in every state.

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom has informed Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets that lands officially vested in the board of directors of a school district may not be condemned and used as a state highway. There is no statute which designates authority to the highway department to condemn school district property so that a part of it may be used as a highway right of way, and in the absence of such statute the rule followed that such property cannot be taken for a different use.

PETER'S GREAT CONFESSION

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 16: 13-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Pleases Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Confessing Our Faith in Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Confessing Christ Openly.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What think ye of Christ?

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard His wonderful words and witnessed His mighty works. Various opinions were extant about Him. Since Jesus was soon to go to the cross it was necessary for the disciples to have a definite and true conception of Him. In order to help them into the right conception, He provoked this confession from Peter as the spokesman of the group of disciples.

1. Peter's Confession (vv. 13-16).

1. How provoked.

Two questions of Christ put to the disciples called forth this great confession.

(1) Whom do men say I, the Son of Man, am (v. 13).

1. He first inquired for the opinion of the people concerning Him. As a wise teacher He knew that this would help crystallize the view of the disciples. The people recognized Jesus as a teacher or a prophet, with more than human authority and power. To-day, as then, there is a diversity of opinion among the people as to Jesus Christ. The multitudes today recognize Jesus as an unique personality and as having been a great teacher, but that which offends them is His deity.

(2) "Whom say ye that I am?" (v. 15).

This question involved the personal opinion of the disciples concerning Him. To be able to tell what others think of Jesus is not enough. There must be definite, correct and personal belief in Him. Personal belief is worth infinitely more than the knowledge of what others think, for upon personal belief hinges character and destiny.

2. What Peter's confession involved (v. 16).

Two vital things, the Messiahship and deity of Jesus. That which Jesus called forth from Peter is the burning question of today. "What think ye of Christ?" is the question that must be answered by everyone.

3. Christ's commendation of Peter (v. 17).

He pronounced him blessed. Truly he was blessed, for he both possessed and confessed Christ.

II. The New Body, the Church, Announced by Christ (vv. 18-20).

Christ declared His intention of bringing into existence a new body, to the members of which He will give eternal life and into whose hands He would entrust the keys of the Kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. Christ declared that Peter should be the foundation stone in His church. Christ is the chief corner stone upon which the church is built. Christ's person and Messiahship were confessed by Peter and on this rock (truth confessed) is laid the foundation of the apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20). All believers are living stones of this house (1 Pet. 2:5). The keys entrusted to Peter were used on the day of Pentecost and again in the case of Cornelius.

III. The Cross the Way to the Throne (vv. 21-23).

From that time Jesus began to show to the disciples how that He must go unto Jerusalem and suffer many things, be killed and raised again the third day. This indeed startled the disciples. They did not yet realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter cried: "This shall not be unto thee." Peter later saw through this darkness to the glory of the hillocks. A new hope then filled his heart (1 Pet. 1:3, 4). Many are yet stumbling over the doctrine of salvation and redemption through the suffering of the cross. Salvation by blood is hated by the devil.

IV. The Cost of Discipleship (v. 24).

To follow Christ means to suffer. It means to turn one's back upon the world.

1. There must be denial of self. There is a wide difference between self-denial and the denial of self.

2. Take up His cross.

This cross is the suffering and shame which lie in the path of loyalty to God.

3. Follow Christ.

This means to have the mind of Christ; to be like Christ. Christ will come in glory to reward all such.

The Power of God

Many a battle has been won by the arrival of reinforcements. When a man is fighting a battle against his evil tendencies, the coming of the power of God into his soul often means victory. The human reinforced by the divine assures us of heaven.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

Napoleon Bonaparte

(Part IV)

EUROPE, for the first time in twenty years, could rest in peace and repair its shattered fortunes. Napoleon, who had been the "bogie man" of a whole scared continent, was beaten by sheer force of numbers; disowned by his own people; and safely stowed away on a distant island, where he could annoy no one. Small wonder that there was thanksgiving in Europe!

But the calm was soon broken. Barely ten months after the allies had imprisoned him on Elba, Napoleon escaped. With 1,000 of his "Old Guard" he landed in France, March 1, 1815. The news of his return swept the country like wildfire. The French nation which, a year earlier, had groined under his yoke, went mad with joy. Louis XVIII had been a stupid, unpopular king. After a quarter century of military glory and endless excitement it had been hard for France to settle down to humdrum peaceful existence. People spoke of Napoleon as an almost immortal hero.

With one accord army and populace greeted their returned emperor with a frenzy of joy. He moved northward prepared for opposition. But he met with none. His journey to Paris was a triumphal march. Soldiers sent to arrest him flocked to his standard.

The gates were everywhere thrown open to the Corsican. Poor old Louis XVIII fled for his life, and Napoleon entered the French capital without striking a blow. In his absence people had forgotten his tyranny and selfishness and the havoc he had wrought. They remembered only his glory, magnetism and genius. He was again their idol.

But the Napoleon who returned from exile was not the same sort of man who had overawed Europe. His early life was beginning to tell on him. He could no longer concentrate his thoughts, make up his mind quickly, nor even keep awake at critical moments. He was living solely on his past fame.

The "Hundred Days" now set in. By modifying some of his former despotism the emperor won over to him those whose memories had at first proved stronger than their enthusiasm. The Royalists crept out of sight and bided their time. But the great body of the empire rallied about their former tyrant, eager to follow him against the whole universe. And they had not long to wait for a chance to prove their devotion. For the allies again rushed to arms, putting an army of 700,000 men into the field. Napoleon could muster barely 200,000 men for active service. Yet, to save France from a second invasion, he hurried his troops into Belgium, where the English, Dutch, Brunswickers, etc., under the duke of Wellington and the Prussians under Marshal Blucher, were encamped.

Napoleon knew Wellington and Blucher would try to unite at Charleroi; so he planned to get there ahead of them, thrash them each in turn and then march eastward, where the Austrian and Russian armies were gathering. The plan was worthy of Napoleon at his best. But its execution showed the past worthy Corsican at his worst. He beat the first corps of the Prussian army at Zithen, June 13, and seized Charleroi. Then he sent part of his army, under Ney, against Wellington. The two met at Quatrebras, June 16. After a hard battle Ney was repulsed, but Wellington was forced to fall back on the heights of St. Jean, near the Belgian village of Waterloo. Meantime Napoleon, with the remainder of the French army, met the Prussians, under Blucher, at Ligny and utterly defeated them, killing 12,000. It was the last of the emperor's innumerable brilliant victories. He sent General Grouchy with 33,000 men in pursuit of the flying Prussians (in the wrong direction, as it happened), and himself started after Wellington. The French reached Waterloo late on June 17, 1815. The next day they attacked Wellington's army in one of the most bloody and epoch-making battles ever fought.

Out of all Wellington's great army only 24,000 were English, the rest being Hollanders, Belgians and Germans. Thus the popular impression that Waterloo was won by England is not wholly correct. All day the French attacked, and all day Wellington barely held his own. But at nightfall Blucher and his Prussians (who had eluded stupid Grouchy) came up. The battle had lasted eight and one-half hours. France had lost 31,000 men, the allies 23,000. Napoleon's star had set. His cause was forever lost. Again he abdicated in favor of his son, and threw himself on England's mercy.

By a stroke of diplomacy that is variously described as a necessary measure and as a flagrant breach of trust, the man who for twenty years had defied the whole world was sent to the island of St. Helena, and was kept there under strict guard until in May, 1821, he died of cancer of the stomach.

So perished Napoleon Bonaparte, genius, charlatan, wonder-worker, "holdup man" of Europe—one of the greatest men that ever lived. A man, however, not great enough to realize that selfish ambition and purely personal glory can never bring lasting success.

Vote Recount Reveals Fraud

spondents were because the voter had not placed the cross in front of Albert E. Markgraf's name but had placed it to right of the name in the next party column on the ballot and when party had no candidate for sheriff and claim it was apparent the voter wished to vote for Markgraf. Some were objected to because the double-cross had been used.

Taken as a whole it is the belief of the petitioners that they have proven their allegations even though there were only some four or five ballots smudged as David A. Martin had testified when evidence was being heard.

The judges of the first precinct were called as witnesses and asked to inspect the sack of ballots containing the vote of the first precinct. The judges of this precinct are: Rudolph Turk and William Hinz, Republican judges and Joseph Quinlan Democratic judge. All testified that the sack appeared to be in the same condition as when it was delivered to the county judge. The sack was then opened and the following count was made: Markgraf, 586; Weston, 256; Blank ballots, that is those not voting for either candidate for sheriff 36; objected ballots 195. The total vote of this precinct was 1073.

The final canvass after the election gave Markgraf 855, Weston 199, blank ballots 19.

Weston has made a gain of 57 undisputed ballots and many have been objected to that show signs of having been tampered with the crosses are made with a different pencil. There are 17 more blank ballots than was reported in the canvass of November.

The 25th precinct was then ordered opened and Anton Nemanich, Jr., a Republican judge was called and identified the sack as being in the same condition as when last seen.

The sack was opened and after a count of the precinct the following results were arrived at: Markgraf, 303; Weston 43; objected to ballots 29 and blank ballots 24. The total vote of this precinct was 399 and the final canvass gave Markgraf 322 Weston 51 and blank ballots 26. There is a change of two ballots in this precinct.

The judge ordered that all the ballots of the general election held November 2, 1926, be opened and counted because there had been a large change in the recount of the 14th, first and 25th precincts and he believed that a general recount was justifiable.

Aug. Hartwig, Republican judge of the 7th precinct identified the sack of ballots of that precinct and said they were in the same condition as when turned over to the county clerk.

A recount of the seventh precinct gave the following results: Markgraf 449, Weston 119; blanks 38; objected ballots 59. The official canvass was Markgraf 505; Weston 120. This gives Weston a gain of 16 votes in this precinct without the contested ballots.

Peter Dittmyer, Republican judge of the second precinct, Joliet was called and identified the ballots of the second and they were ordered opened and the following results were arrived at: Markgraf 393, Weston 63; blanks 26. Weston lost 3 votes on the count but there were two more blank ballots than the canvass had shown so Weston has lost one vote in this precinct but still has a chance to forge ahead with the 66 ballots objected to. The objections were that the cross in the circle was different from the one in the square.

Up to the present time there are 490 ballots objected to and possibly there will be 2500 to 3000 ballots before a general recount has been completed and the contest will be won or lost by these objected ballots. It looks very good to the Weston supporters at this time and they are satisfied that the outcome will be to their liking.

In the 3rd the total vote was 891. Weston 146; Markgraf 656; blanks 89. Recount shows total of 189; Weston 138; Markgraf 600; blanks 87; objected to 86.

OAK LAWN

There is great rejoicing in Oak Lawn among the people as a whole as we go to press over the bright prospects of a change of administration.

Frank E. Harnew our worthy candidate for President of the Village Board was born and raised on a farm and educated in our local schools. He is a man of excellent character, also wonderful ability. The people are proud of him and know his record to be clean and above reproach in his past affiliations on the Board.

Some people have been silly enough to remark that Frank Harnew was a hay seed and those voting for him were the same, presumably because he was raised on a farm.

If those unkind words were expressed by people of refinement and would only pause and think that many of the men who signed The Declaration of Independence of our "Great American Country" were farmers and many of our great Statesmen of today are farmers, so called hay seeds, we, the people of Oak Lawn are proud of our candidate, Frank E. Harnew.

We are also pleased to announce the candidacy of Jos. Ulatowski, for member of the town Board. He is American born, served in World War, over seas for 18 months when his country needed him, received his honorable discharge, and he comes before you with a clear record. He is possessed of intelligence and ability and is well qualified for the position he seeks. He is 34 years old, married and has five children.

Owing to lack of space we are obliged to hold many items over to next week.

Statement

Statement of the Ownership, Management, Circulation, etc., required by the Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

Of the News-Bulletin, published weekly at Mokena, Illinois for April 1, 1927.

State of Illinois, County of Will, ss. Before me a notary public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared Wm. Semmler, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the owner of the News-Bulletin and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 411, Postal Laws and Regulations, to-wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor and business managers are: Publisher, Wm. Semmler, Mokena, Illinois. Editor Wm. Semmler, Mokena, Ill.

2. That the owner is: Wm. Semmler, Mokena, Ill.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: Mergenthaler Linotype Co., 29 Ryerson St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

WM. SEMMLER, Owner
Sworn to and subscribed to before me this 14th day of April, 1927.

John Liess, Notary Public
Sal. My commission expires July 24, 1927.

STOP AT PAVED ROADS

State Highway Signs Mark
Through Roads and Require Full Stop.

Under an act of the last general assembly the state highway department has erected signs at all cross roads along state highways requiring motorists to bring their cars to a full stop before crossing or driving onto the state road.

These signs are distinctive in character and have a high visibility, being painted in black and yellow. Efforts are being made by state authorities to secure general observance of the law.

In the Same Class

A pedestrian who disputes right of way with an automobile is taking about the same chances as a driver who claims precedence over a train at a grade crossing.

Buick is in a Value Class.

Its position of leadership is founded on value. Its constant aim is to build each Buick better than the last.
And today,
despite that leadership well won and firmly held, Buick is constantly striving still further to increase the value on which its leadership is based.
